

The Annotated Will 2020

Thursday, January 23, 2020 (09:00 AM-12:00 PM)

Description: There are two things you need to draft effective wills: a thorough grasp of the basics and up-to-date thinking on topical clauses. Our presenters are expert wills and estates practitioners, and they make sure you check both boxes. They review the basics and select those critical clauses to explore in greater detail. Scrutinizing and discussing specific language helps you immeasurably when you come to draft wills that work for your clients. The time you put in here is time well spent.

The Intersection between Mental Well-Being and Litigation Practice
Tuesday, May 5, 2020 (09:00 AM-12:00 PM)

Description: The outcome of litigation hinges on many factors. We are becoming increasingly aware how much a person's state of mind is one such factor: both the client's and the litigators. A client who breaks down at every meeting or berates you repeatedly may be showing symptoms of a psychological issue. And litigators who are stressed and overworked can negatively impact the course of a file. Our presenters help you recognize when a client's challenging behaviour might be from a mental health issue, what strategies you can employ to assist them, and the signs that your own mental health may need attention.

Criminal Law Refresher 2020
Saturday, May 9, 2020 (09:00 AM-01:00 PM)

Description: There are many elements that go into a successful criminal law practice, but it all starts with a comprehensive understanding of the fundamentals. Our expert presenters provide you with this foundation. They walk you through the necessary skills, from taking instructions and obtaining disclosure, to conducting a trial and everything in between. They also offer useful tips and provide insights on how to effectively analyze each relevant issue and deal with the particular difficulties that often come up for the criminal law practitioner.
